EXPLORING THE LEGACY OF THE HABSBURG MONARCHY

For nearly 400 years, various ethnic and religious minorities coexisted within the Habsburg Monarchy. After its dissolution, newly independent states began to examine the ethnic and religious issues from this era individually, primarily focusing on conflicts. Fortunately, in the early 2000s, historians began to emphasize the different forms of symbiosis among these minorities and how they influenced one another, resulting in a rich tapestry of cultural exchange. During this event, we aim to provide students with both theoretical and practical insights into how the memory of the Habsburg dynasty and the empire has shaped the identities of the peoples in Central Europe, as well as the cultural and architectural heritage that has emerged over the last 400 years. With the programs offered, participants will have the opportunity to delve deeper into our shared history.

This event is organized in collaboration with PPCU, Matej Bel University, Jagiellonian University, and Babeş-Bolyai University.
