COMPLEX EXAMINATION

The complex examination is a public examination taken by the doctoral student, serving as a comprehensive evaluation of the student's knowledge in the field of study. It is conducted during the fourth active semester and is assessed by a committee comprising a minimum of three members. One re-take, limited to the theoretical part only, is allowed, which must take place in the same semester.

The eligibility criteria for applying for the complex examination are as follows:

- a) Proficiency in two foreign languages at a level deemed necessary for the scientific discipline, typically demonstrated by achieving at least a B2 level complex state-accredited language exam or an equivalent certificate. Deaf students may provide evidence of proficiency in a sign language other than Hungarian. Foreign doctoral students must also certify proficiency in an additional foreign language, alongside their native language, as per the stipulations of these Regulations.
- b) The successful completion of a minimum of 90 credits during the study and research phase of the doctoral program, in addition to fulfilling all compulsory curricular requirements.
- c) Prior to the complex examination or the final examination, doctoral students are required to electronically submit 40-40 standard pages of their dissertation, complete with proper annotations and supervisor approval, to the following address: doktori@btk.ppke.hu.

The complex examination consists of two main components:

- 1. The theoretical section of the complex examination evaluates the student's knowledge in at least two specific subjects or topics that are part of the compulsory or compulsory elective courses within the curriculum. This section may also include a written examination.
 - Knowledge of source language(s): if the language of the sources on which the dissertation is based is not Hungarian, but a living or dead foreign language, reading and translating a short text (max. 500 words) from the source language during the exam (max. two language) before the examination board. A degree in the language(s) or a higher level language exam can replace this part of the exam.
- 2. In the second part of the complex examination, the student presents their knowledge of literature, research findings, the research plan for the second phase of the doctoral program, and the schedule for preparing the dissertation and publishing its results.

The supervisor has the opportunity to assess the student's performance in writing beforehand and/or during the examination.

The complex examination is graded using a two-grade system (pass or fail), and the results are announced on the day of the final part of the examination.
